

INAUGURAL LECTURE
OF THE
HOLMES ROLSTON III ENDOWED CHAIR
IN ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
and the CSU ETHICS COLLOQUIUM present

KENNETH SHOCKLEY, PH.D.

HOLMES ROLSTON III ENDOWED CHAIR
IN ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS

What We Need to Flourish: Rethinking External Goods and the Ecological Systems That Provide Them

How should we balance the need for development with the need for environmental protection? Too often development and environmental protection are thought of as being at odds. This paper argues that just as development requires we support robust social systems, so it requires we support robust ecological systems. Rather than being at odds with one another, development requires robust environmental protection.

Date: Friday, October 14, 2016
Time: 4:00pm - 6:00pm
Place: Eddy 200

Free and open to the public
Sponsored by
Department of Philosophy
and CSU Ethics Colloquium
Colorado State University
(970) 491-6315

